

this philosophical exchange went on for many hours, the full assembly of friends researchers filled the rasip appartement with a festive auras... visitors were asked to come two weeks later as the group wanted to focus completly towards the finishing of the cell assemblies what would serve as initial growth stimulation for the approaching date of start to grow 10 000 androids the friends were bathing a lot together swimming dancing loving each other in great ways of wonderment how each got into union with other species and elements

some told the others who were listening fully how they imagine to combine their features with the ones from the other researchers... their wishes and imaginations shared trough voice and drawings they projected live at the ceiling... were kind of instructions for the awakening mind in the pool as the cells assembled in several groups were exchanging constantly their new findings how to evolve more smoothly and intelligent samewise will the androids be informed what are planned to be grown starting in some days the programs developed by mansulei mirael with programmers and the friends occasionally providing background info how they assume their cells grew into each other the gentle non manipulating splicing way... the android grow tanks would be projected with light colours audio... that being the only software transmission or installing the final application and operatingn system would be to great parts designed by each one android by itself ... joho was also at the party festive time... he being one of the fews near to the friends group who was still pure human but perhaps not any longer as it seemed that he misses out on all the butterfly winged batlegs growing ... also to be a mango instead of eating one, that could be worth to leave humanity state behind and enter mutantia... not a nice word that perhaps preoccupied ... multispecies living ones... being a nicer but less strong short .. multilives...

hour after hour he stayed and listened openly as it would be important for his android venture but also more and more for himself... and then again he reminded himself that he wanted to be respected by the fellow business community what perhaps too will try to stay in pure human state as for the same reason... to be accepted as a caution responsible person who would not become multilives just like that out of an impulse but would wait how the first 10000 would come out of their growth a growth what is highly influenced by the atmosphere in the room the android would grow the android grow tank would be a mostly closed air but with air being supplied by the steering of the supply amounts ... this steering again being influenced by the growing andodroid itself as well as with the supervising uncle who was either one or many persons partly spending time in the earth hut who hosted the android grow tank also uncles can be anyone who watches the grow tank and sends his/her goodluck wishes or compares the microscopic filming of thr growing parts of the android body.... the nurturing fluid in the tank allowed the cells islands to communicate with each other the several parts of the future android bodies would grow simultaneously beside each other in the tank, sometimes swimming around to test different organ neighbourhoods while also forming the connecting muscles tendons and nerves... miraël and mansulei were now joining johō in his thoughts and soon the group followed with their attention johō was a bit surprised how his thoughts on how the setup of the growing phase would look like..he was positively surprised to experience the group mind... he felt their attention towards his thoughts and started to tell them... the conversation switched now on to how the android grow tank would allow the several cell assemblies to build one connected individual... perhaps even that would not be guaranteed, eventually one grow tank would release an entity what felt happy to walk fly swim as a swarm of hundreds of handsized autonomously moving parts what could stretch their connecting nerve communication exchange over great stretches of physical distance

... miraël... i see a swarm of bees what are collecting all kinds of informations materials and can fly away from their central gathering living space, the hive... many kilometres... with finding home again... mansulei... are you sure we have bee genes in our pool.... nilai... but we have butterflies who are not really builders of hives (?) but can dance together quite close and feel probably an intense community connection... i am still learning on the emotional level as well as rationally what happened since i got the blessing of the butterfly tribe on the boat driving up the maonzia river nandofer ava and rumu were now taking some time to tell the other friends how they have once made an excursion some weeks ago out into the rasip surrounding countryside ... they danced in a high meadow having paid some money for them trampling down the high grass in advance to the farmer who itself was an alternative easy going person who cut the high grass to fabricate by hand some healing hey pillows and garments like scarfs...

when they felt safe to try out their multives abilities, they spontaneously also built themselves for some moments into flowers giving out intense waves of flowerlike scents what attracted thousands of bees the bees were landing on their naked bodies to lick up their sweat... and then it happened that all three of them whom already knew the multispecies upgrading well from their many hundreds of hours bathing with luoma... it happened that the three dancers felt the psychic presence of the hive mind who sent them greetings and thanks for providing this unique scent combinations what felt beneficial to their lifestyle the group bee mind offered the three to be of assistance any time they wanted to become beelike

... with the three not refusing at all but mentally asking if they could merge right now as they surely wanted to be as magnificent and caring and work enthusiastic like bees... even if the goal of the friends group was to help create organisms who would minimise the required work to life decently.... the bees were heroes in the dancers mind... the bee mind was ready to fusion sensing this heroification vibes.... nandofer ava and rumu enjoyed the transmission much very gusto it was an experience what they could barely describe... like if all ones separate thinking processes would be understood in one moment.... like thousands of instruments playing one harmonic song

... that was too much for johō... he could not abstain any more ... he wanted to be a beehive same with all of the friends and not long as there were hundreds of flowers swimming on the surface of the pool and many thousand bees in the rasip appartement as allways, the rasip appartement was 24 hours 365. days online with hundreds of camera feeds some of them microscopic for joho and mansulei and mirael as the leading persons in the commercial rollout... this was a bit or quite totally unexpected... who would watch us becoming a bee hive and still want an android companion who probably could decide to form its body into hundreds of bees... but then they let go of the doubts and enjoyed to visit the flowers